

Press Release
For Immediate Release
June 15, 2009

Sullivan's Represent CSA/USA at Canadian Celiac Association Conference

Tom and Carolyn Sullivan, members of the Canadian Celiac Association since 1994, attended the Canadian Celiac Association (CCA) Conference held at Waterloo, Ontario Canada from May 29 through May 31st. The annual conference featured the theme of "Celebrating Our Celiac Community" with presentations by doctors and health professionals, educational workshops and an exhibit hall featuring 50 vendors and representatives of gluten free products, along with numerous opportunities to network and share information about celiac disease.

As a past president of CSA, Tom reinforced the communication and working relationship between the Canadian Celiac Association and CSA. He updated the CCA on the new CSA Physician Education Program (PEP) and shared many of the activities of the CSA Chapters-supporting CSA's mission of "Celiacs Helping Celiacs." The Sullivan's invited the Canadian membership to the CSA Conference in Erie, PA, encouraging the continued partnership between the two celiac associations, as they work together to promote celiac disease awareness, education, early diagnosis and research in celiac disease.